E. NCAA Hand Signals (Rev. 6/2012)

The HHSAA volleyball officials will use the NCAA volleyball officials hand signals as outlined in NCAA Volleyball Officials rule book (Rule 18.1.5).

When a fault is whistled by the first referee, he or she will indicate the result of the play (loss of rally/point) followed by the nature of the fault. The second referee mimics these signals. If the fault is whistled by the second referee, he or she will indicate the nature of the fault. The first referee, if in agreement, will then indicate the result of the play (loss of rally/point); the second referee mimics that signal.

When the R2 initiates a call, the R1 will lead the R2 with the result (point/loss of rally) only.

R2 initiates a net fault:

1. Second referee blows whistle & steps to side at fault.
2. Indicates net fault.
3. Shows number of player at fault.
4. First referee repeats number of player (no net fault signal).
5. First referee shows loss of rally/point signal.
6. Second referee mimics loss of rally/point.

(Same procedure if R2 whistles center line, antenna, ball contacting standard, ball in non-playable area, illegal alignment, wrong server, etc. No need to give numbers for these violations.)

When the R1 initiates any fault, including those above, the R2 will mimic the point signal, followed by the fault signal – EXCEPT for net serve.
